We cannot truthfully say that Spain's colony less is this country's and we are no longer at any expense there. But our expenses in the Philippines continue enormous, and there is no indication that they will be decreased in the immediate future. It costs the United States government more than $15,000,000 a year to maintain its army and its civil government in the Philippines.

It is also costing us the lives of many.

And that is the only basis on which the court could figure. Of course, there are exceptions. Many boys are not worth anything at all, while all girls are worth a good deal.

The law never, or at least it rarely, takes cognizance of sentimental values. The question is one which interested persons could never settle. People with children could argue themsedves into the grave without reaching a decision. Certainly parents who have both sons and daughters love the boys as much as they love the girls. They grieve as deeply over the loss of one child as over the loss of one child forever the ordinary parents would order the bidder out of the house. Nevertheless, the fact remains that in this workaday world boys are more valuable, as money earners, than girls.

It is possible for a boy to begin earning money by the time he is 12 years old. Many of them begin long before that age. The average girl is at home or in school until she is at least 17 or 15 years old. Then, if she has to earn her own living, she must start at tri-ling wages, barely enough to board and clothe herself. It is not pleasant to value a life in dollars, and especitory and the prize?
